Formerly Slade Professor of Fine Art in the University of Cambridge; and Keeper of the Prints and Drawings at the British Museum. 1 Vol., 8vo, price 18s. net. [Oct. 26.

The SOUL and BODY of an ARMY

By GENERAL SIR IAN HAMILTON, G.C.B., Author of "A Staff-Officer's Scrap-Book," "The Millennium?" "Gallipoli Diary," &c. One volume. Demy 8vo. 18s. net. [Oct. 12.

General Sir Ian Hamilton was impelled to write this book by the conviction that war in the future will be in all respects a radically different thing from all the wars of the past, the Great War itself included. Never, he insists, were all the elements of the art of war so much in the melting-pot as at the present time; never, therefore, was intelligent anticipation of all possible future developments in warfare so essential if we as a nation are to survive.

HINDUISM and BUDDHISM

AN HISTORICAL SKETCH. By SIR CHARLES ELIOT, K.C.M.G., D.C.L., LL.D., H.B.M. Ambassador at Tokio. Three Volumes. Demy 8vo. £5 5s. net.

An exhaustive work on a subject of vast magnitude and transcendent interest. Besides other eminent qualifications, Sir Charles Eliot brings to his task a knowledge of Oriental languages, living and dead, which is probably unique. Thus his book is not a mere academical treatise, but stands in vital relation to the present spiritual and moral life of Asia.

THEORY AND HISTORY OF HISTORIOGRAPHY.

Being Part Four of the Philosophy of the Spirit, by BENEDETTO CROCE, Italian Minister of Education. Translated by DOUGLAS AINSLIE, M.A. Demy 8vo, 320 pages, with Index. 15s. net.

This volume concludes the series of masterpieces which has been entitled "The Philosophy of the Spirit." In it the author has set himself the task of deepening and amplifying the theory of historiography outlined by him in Part II., "Logic."

"Croce exercises a compulsion upon our minds. His mere scope is magnificent; his power of marshalling the phenomena with which he deals truly impressive. . . . The second part of the book is an astonishingly clear and concise critical account of the conceptions that have animated historical writing from Herodotus till to-day. As a harmonious combination of erudition and clarity, of insight and knowledge, this narrative is more than remarkable; it is indubitably the work of a master."—Nation and Athenæum.

"Croce throws out ideas with a lavish hand."—Irish Times.

MEDIÆVAL CONTRIBUTIONS TO MODERN CIVILISATION.

A HISTORY OF LABOUR.

By GILBERT STONE, B.A., LL.B. Demy 8vo, 416 pages, with Bibliography and Index. 15s. net.

"A work which performs a notable and welcome service in providing a workmanlike review of a great and important subject within the compass of four hundred pages. It is a book which all who are interested in the history of English labour will read with pleasure and profit."—Sheffield Daily Independent.

"Is a timely book, well deserving a welcome . . . capable of proving a most useful contribution to popular education."—Dundee Advertiser.

AN INTRODUCTION TO MYTHOLOGY.

By LEWIS SPENCE, F.R.A.I. With Photogravure Frontispiece. Demy 8vo, 336 pages, with Index. 12s. 6d net.

"Students of many different types will be well advised to read this book. After an introductory chapter written in simple language, Mr. Spence proceeds in a chapter on 'The Progress of Mythic Science,' marked by wide learning and scholarly caution. This chapter alone renders the book of infinite value to the student of mythology. Later chapters we should like every student of theology to read. Mr. Spence has himself only anthropologists and students of mythology in mind, but his work will interest the general reader as well, and he has succeeded in making it extremely lucid."—Journal of Education.

AN INTRODUCTION TO THE INDUSTRIAL HISTORY ON ENGLAND.

By ALBERT PAYSON USHER, Ph.D. With Maps, Diagrams, and Graphs. Demy 8vo, 586 pages. 15s. net.

A full, authoritative, and readable account of England's industrial development from the Middle Ages to the present time, with special reference to social and labour problems. To read this book is to gain a knowledge of the evolution of our complex industrial system, essential for a clear understanding of the major problems of to-day.

"Professor Usher's learned and carefully wrought volume is a valuable addition to students' text books on its subject. It is a comprehensive survey of the outstanding events in the economic history of these islands during nine centuries."—The Scotsman.

LIFE: HOW IT COMES.

A Child's Book of Elementary Biology. By STEPHEN REID-HEYMAN (Mrs. Lawrence Parsons, M.D., Ch.B.). Introduced by the BISHOP OF BIRMINGHAM. With many illustrations and diagrams. 5s. net.

The Bishop writes:—

"At the present time there is a very great need for a reverent and clear statement to children of the truth connected with the facts of sex; and 'Life: How It Comes' is deserving of the study both of the young themselves, and of those who wish the coming generation to be rightly guided in this matter. . . . I wish the book every success."

THE TRAVELLER'S TALE.

By CLIFFORD BAX (Author of "A House of Words," etc., etc.). 5s. net.

¶ Critics who have read this book in MS. agree it is one of the most remarkable narrative poems of late years.

It tells of seven incarnations of a soul—from the far past, through historic times, to the remote future.

Each tale, complete in itself, is told in notably beautiful verse, and with quite extraordinary imaginative power.

The story of one whose versatile gifts filled her life with incident and variety. A sympathetic delineation of a very lovable character.

Way of Revelation.

By WILFRID EWART. 7s. 6d. net

A novel based upon the War, upon a broad scale, showing the effect of the conflict on the minds and on the characters of the central figures in the story. It analyses the personal significance of the struggle both to those who fought and to those at home.

The Mirrors of Washington.

ANONYMOUS. Illustrated with Fourteen Portraits and Fourteen Cartoons by "Cesare." 15s. net.

Like "A Gentleman with a Duster" the author has perforce to remain anonymous—indeed he is even more outspoken than his rival. From President Harding, whose sole defect is his "lack of mentality," to Mr. Wilson's "A Round Head in a Ford," no one goes unscathed.

If—The Words of the Play.

By LORD DUNSANY.

Special Edition, 10s. 6d. net; Ordinary Edition, 3s. 6d. net.

The philosophy of the play is mainly based on the fact that man cannot control his destiny because he only considers the hundred important things, neglecting the million trivial, unimportant ones; and any one of those may matter as much as those whose obvious importance he is able to foresee.

RECOLLECTIONS OF DEAN FREMANTLE

Chiefly by Himself

Ecclesiastical

Edited by the Master of the Temple

The late Dean contributed largely to the theological, ecclesiastical and national life of our generation, and the positions he occupied brought him into contact with many noted people in the long period embracing the Oxford Movement and the Great War. His recollections and comments are of particular interest at the present time.

RECOLLECTIONS

Industrial

Sir Charles W. Macara BART.

The author, one of the great leaders of British industry, gives a graphic account of his long campaign for a permanent solution of industrial questions, his adventures abroad, and his association with famous people, from the crowned heads of Europe to the cotton magnates of the Southern States. It is a fascinating story of a remarkable career.
